This good lady has been very ill for several days, at one time her condition being such as to cause grave apprehensions. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs, arrived from their Baltimore home Sunday and are now at her bedside.

In conversation with a friend last Friday we incidentally remarked that we were going away the next morning—to Pablo Beach—for a few days stay. Our friend immediately said: "How unfortunate, you won't get to see the sunrise Sunday morning, will you?" And he was in earnest too. For the benefit of our friend we will say that we had a splendid view of the phenomenon all the more wondering how it was possible that the event, scheduled exclusively for Madison, could be viewed so far away from this town.
